Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow :

Lokamanya Tilak was imprisoned by the English. He kept himself busy in studies while in jail. The jail was a quiet place, where even the birds wouldn't chirp. Tilak started putting away some food for birds while having meals. The food was untouched in the beginning. But after some days, a few birds started coming there. Slowly their number increased and they were all around Tilak. The birds would sit on his head and shoulders fearlessly. One day a jailor came to Tilak's cell while on his rounds. On hearing the chirping of birds, he peeped in and he was totally surprised. "So many birds; where have they come from ?" he asked. Tilak replied, "Friend, I didn't bring them from India. These are from here only." The jailor was surprised. He said, "Everybody eats birds; hence they do not come here." Tilak laughed and said, "The birds can also distinguish between friends and foes."
