The members of the Bar are the backbone of the judicial system. They are naturally aware of the role expected of them in the Court proceedings. They should resolve to see that each Brief they handle is prepared by them on the facts and in law. They also should ensure that the Courts work full time and that their matters are taken up in their turn for hearing and not unnecessarily adjourned. They would be justified in expecting punctuality in the working of the Courts. Both the judges and the lawyers must respect the timings appointed for Court work. Waste of even fifteen minutes in each working session either due to non-availability of the judge or a lawyer works out to a loss of at least two full working days in a month. If this happens in ten Courts, the loss would be twenty working days of one Court, which means the effective judge strength of the Courts is reduced by at least one judge. All this at whose cost ? Lawyers and Judges should therefore, conduct the work keeping foremost the interest of those who await the outcome of process and who have no say in their grooming.
