

Data base management system (DBMS)

A software that makes it convenient to do possible activities with data base is called a Database Management System. A user can handle a database through an application software.

System analysis means a details study of computerizing field and learn about the works in it a new software system is designed on the basis of system analysis.