PREPARE THE NARRATIVE

Adventures in a banyan tree is about a young boy who visits his grandfather during his vacation. He was a great lover of nature and enjoys friendship with them. All types of birds and animals visit there. The banyan tree was the noisiest place on the road. All types of birds flock to the branches. The boy gets enormous pleasure with a small grey squirrel. It was not afraid of him as he had no arms with him. It takes cakes and biscuits from his pocket. The boy was sitting on the platform half up the tree. When he looked out, he saw a huge cobra gliding out of a clump of a cactus and a grey mongoose came out from the bushes. They came face to face. The cobra and mongoose were superb fighters.

He would spend the afternoon there when it was not hot. He could see the fight between a cobra and mongoose in the garden. He could witness the fight.

Mongoose was a superb fighter, clever and aggressive. They were unaware of the presence of the boy in the tree. Myna and crow were the spectators. They were on the cactus. Myna kept a safe distance from the fight. Mongoose won the fight. Grandfather was pleased that mongoose. He encouraged it to live in the garden. The snake had eaten scraps from the kitchen. He never tamed the mongoose. They tried to keep the snakes away from the house.
