Analysis of the 14 Prose Lessons.

Dears,

Here, let's analyse the content of the 14 prose lessons. Here we aim at the content comprehension of the lessons. Important themes of each lesson are also given after the analysis. Think of the themes and write a paragraph on it.

1. His First Flight

- 'His first flight' is a story written by Liam O'Flaherty.
- Liam O'Flaherty was an Irish novelist and a short story writer.
- It is the story of a young seagull, who was afraid to fly.
- The young seagull lived on a ledge with his family.
- He thought his wings would not support him to fly.
- Lack of confidence and courage made him to stay on the ledge.
- He was left alone on the ledge with nothing to eat.
- His family, especially mother, gave him confidence to fly.
- His father, two brothers, and a sister were flying around him and supported him.
- Finally, he flew and all the family members showed their joy by flying with him.
- Every child needs courage and support in his life.
- To be successful we have to be courageous, confident and self reliant.
- The story conveys the message that we can't achieve anything without taking risks.

Important themes of the lesson:

- Facing and overcoming challenges for achieving greatness.
- Importance of mother's love and care.
- Importance of courage, confidence and self reliance.

2. I Will Fly

- I Will Fly is a speech delivered by Dr. A. P .J. Abdul Kalam.

Analysis of the five Poems

Dears,

There are five poems in the Course Book. Study all the poems so that you can attend maximum questions in the question paper. Studying poems is a simple task. Keep in mind six points while preparing review of a poem:

1. Title and the poet.
2. Theme of the Poem.
3. Brief summary of the poem.
4. Poetic devices used in the poem.
5. Your personal comments.
6. Message or messages.

Here, let's analyse the poems one by one:

1. IF

- IF is a motivational poem by Rudyard Kipling.
- It is about how to become an ideal citizen.
- The poem is in the form of instructions given by a father to his child.
- We need to have self confidence to face tough situations in life.
- We need to have faith in ourselves even if others do not believe us.
- We should be patient and cool while dealing with different kinds of people.
- We should hold on to truth whatever be.
- It is good to do self evaluation.
- We should give importance to action rather than words.

- Dream big and try to achieve it.
- But we should not be slaves to our dreams and thoughts.
- We need to take success and failure in the same way.
- Be an emotionally balanced person.
- Make the best use of time, each second is precious.
- We should treat everyone equally.
- Above all, we should forgive people.
- Then we become true humans.

Theme of the Poem:

- Values for self development.
- How to become an ideal citizen.

2. Death, the Leveller

- Death the Leveller is a funeral song written by James Shirley.
- The central idea of the poem is that death is a great leveller or equaliser.
- Wealth, power and social status are temporary.
- We cannot escape from the cold grasp of death.
- Nothing can protect us from the final destiny.
- The king and the farmer become equal in death.
- The victories that we achieve in war are short lived.
- Because the victors become victims of fate.
- It is useless to boast of our mighty deeds.
- Every head must come to the cold tomb.
- Life is like a bubble.
- We don't know when it will explode.
- Only our good deeds will remain after our death.
- Let us stop violence and bloodshed on this earth.
- Let people remember us for our good actions.

Theme of the Poem:

- The importance of doing good deeds.
- Death as a great equaliser.
- The futility of wars and bloodshed.

3. SUNRISE ON THE HILLS

- The poem 'Sunrise on the hills' is written by H.W.Longfellow.
- Here the poet glorifies the enchanting beauty of nature.
- The poem consists of three stanzas of varying length.
- The poet is delighted by the magnificent sight of nature.
- The poet is standing on the hill. The poem starts with the sunrise amidst the hills.
- The poet observes the changes that occur in nature when the sun rises.
- The sky is glorious with the rays of rising sun.
- The rising sun makes the glory of the clouds fade.
- The sun is compared to a warrior.
- The valley responds to the rising sun in a lively manner.
- The water that flows in the river gets darkened by the shade of the forest.
- The idea behind the poem is that nature is a source of inspiration and cure.
- It can heal the wounds of heart and mind.
- The poem is full of visual, auditory and kinesthetic imagery.
- The poem is rich in imagery and musicality.

Theme of the Poem:

- Enjoying beauty of nature.
- Healing power of nature.

4. The Wreck of the Titanic

- The Wreck of the Titanic is one of the famous poems of Benjamin Peck Keith.
- It is written as an elegy in memory of the heroes of the ship Titanic that sank on 14th April 1912.
- Captain Smith and the crew remained in the ship while it was sinking in to the depths of Atlantic.
- The poet calls the ship 'a poem of iron and steel'.
- On the tragic night, it collided with a massive ice berg.
- Women and children got top priority to be rescued from the sinking Titanic.
- Captain Smith never thought of saving himself for a moment.

- The figures of speech such as metaphor, alliteration, assonance and consonance give considerable elegance to the poem.
- The poem highlights the virtues of life such as bravery, compassion, devotion.
- Bravery and heroism of Captain Smith and his team will be remembered forever.

Theme of the Poem:

- Bravery shown to manage disasters/ Titanic ship wreck.
- True and noble heroism.

5. To Sleep

Poem Comprehension Questions:

1. Read the lines from the poem 'Death the Leveller'

Only the actions of the just Smell sweet and blossom in the dust

Elaborate the meaning of the above lines.

Answer:

The poem "Death the Leveller" is written by the Elizabethan poet James Shirley.

In this poem, the poet says that death takes away life from earth without any difference.

Only our good actions that we do when we are alive remain after our death.

The memories of good deeds will bring a sweet scent and leave its fragrance all around.

Smell Sweet is an example of alliteration and synaesthesia.

Question 2.

Read the lines from the poem ' If '.

*If you can dream and not make dreams your master
If you can think and not make thoughts your aim*

Elaborate the meaning of the above lines.

Answer:

The poem 'IF' is written by Rudyard Kipling.

In the poem, a father talks to his son on how to become an ideal citizen.

The poet says it is good to dream but we should not let our dreams control our life.

It is good to think but the thoughts should not take us away from the real world.

Dreams and thoughts are examples for personification.

Questions for Practice:

Elaborate the meaning of the given lines.

1. *If you can fill the unforgiving minute
With sixty seconds worth of distance run*

2. *The glories of our blood and state
Are shadows, not substantial things
There is no armour against Fate;*

3. *Upon Death's purple Altar now
See where the Victor-Victim bleeds.*

- a) Identify the poet.
- b) Identify two poetic devices in the given lines.
- c) Comment on the expression "Death's purple Altar".

Important Themes:

Dears,

Each lesson of our course book is based on certain themes. So we need to focus on the important themes. You have to present your thoughts related to the themes in your write-ups and discourses. Let's analyse the important themes related to the 'focus area.'

1. Traits of a great personality/Glimpses of greatness

Great personalities inspire us.

Their words and deeds motivate us.

They achieve greatness through hard work and commitment.

Perseverance is the key to open the world of greatness.

They are sincere to their words and deeds.

They are people with vision and passion.

Their interventions change the world.

They are optimistic.

They become unique facing the challenges of life with courage, confidence and self reliance.

They are strong with the belief that good can come out of any adversity.

They always remind the people around them that they are the need of the hour.

Their thoughts and ideas can bring revolutionary changes in the world.

2. Importance of confidence and courage .

Confidence and courage are important soft skills.

Lack of such qualities blocks our personality development.

Family plays a crucial role in making us courageous and confident.

In the story 'His First Flight' the mother of the young seagull gave him confidence to fly.

Dr. A.P.J. Abdul Kalam wanted people to be confident, self reliant and hardworking.

To be successful we have to be courageous, confident and self reliant.

We can't achieve anything without taking risks.

Without confidence nothing worthwhile can be achieved.

Parents have a major role to equip their children to face the challenges of life.

Courage, Motivation and support from the side of parents help their children to fly high to the world of success.

3. Mother's care and love.

"God couldn't be present everywhere, so He created mothers".

The words of Tagore underline the importance of mothers.

Mother is the first friend, first teacher and the first guide of her children.

She is the thread that connects all the members of a family.

She is a symbol of love and sacrifice.

Mother is the pillar of a family.

She is a great listener and encourages the children to do their best .

She inspires the children to become bold and confident.

She is the lovely shadow of God who protects her children from all the dangers.

So let's treat our mothers with care and affection.

In the story His First Flight the mother seagull gives all the motivation that the young seagull needed to overcome its inhibition.

4. Importance of being unique.

Dr.Kalam advises us to be unique.

He was responding to a question asked by a young village boy.

We can achieve our mission if we do the things in our unique ways.

Everyone in the world is born with ideas and dreams.

Our life-goal should be to find out the 'unique YOU'

We should work hard to find out our real self.

We can be great if we are unique.

The beauty of the universe lies in unique contributions of different people.

We should never try to imitate others blindly.

Let's think different, do different and make differences.

We may make this world beautiful rendering our unique self.

5.Relevance of Gandhian Principles.

Gandhiji stood for the principles of truth and non-violence.

He did not make war but peace.

His weapon was truth or Satyagraha.

His slogan "Be fearless" inspired the youth.

He emphasized dignity of labour and human values.

He was against all social evils like child marriage, drugs, drinks, inequality etc.

He voiced for communal harmony.

Gandhiji respected tradition.

His religion was all-inclusive.

He appreciated all cultures but he was deep-rooted in his culture.

We should work hard to fulfil his dreams.

We should uphold democratic values.

We should ensure social justice and gender equality.

It is never too late to retrace his steps.

6. Death as an Equaliser

Death is the great equalizer.

We are all equal in front of death.

Whatever we achieve in life is temporary.

Man is proud of his earthly achievements.

But there is no protection against death.

The sceptre and crown becomes equal with scythe and spade.

The symbols of power and tools of hard work are equal in death.

Death comes unexpectedly.

Victor and victim become equal in death.

Death does not show any discrimination.

Death is a fair and just power.

Death places his cold hands on all.

We can outlive death only through our good deeds.

7. Travelling as an eye-opener to new cultures, traditions and rituals.

It is said that travelling is a book and those who do not travel read only a page of it.

Travel opens up new refreshing snapshots before us.

It often helps us change philosophy of our life.

Travel opens our mind, our eyes and our heart.

It makes us feel happy.

It helps us to see rather than to read.

We can explore new cultures and new traditions.

One needs to travel with the right mindset.

It gives us new experience.

Each trip gives us a unique experience.

With increasing facilities, people started to travel around.

They got to know more about other cultures, rituals etc.

Some travel experiences involve exploring the real self of a land.

The ritual of turtle calling is practised in the island of Fiji.

8. Importance of Sleep

Sleep is essential for a healthy way of life.

Sleep refreshes our mind.

It makes us relaxed.

Lack of sleep affects our health.

We become tired and weak.

We cannot do our daily activities.

Sleep is the blessed barrier between day and day.

It is the mother of fresh thoughts and joyous health

9. Walking as an Exercise.

Walking helps us to increase our stamina.

Walking improves blood circulation.

It makes our muscles strong.

It increases our vital capacity.

In general, moderate exercise improves the immune system.

Over exerting oneself in the name of exercise harms our body.

The proper walking technique involves correct posture, stride length, foot placement and foot length.

Do's in walking:

- Walk briskly.
- Swing your arms while walking.
- Walk on the right side of the road.
- Walk with happy and free mind.
- Use Zebra lines to cross the road.

Don't s in walking

- Don't walk too slowly.
- Don't talk while walking.
- Don't drink water while walking.
- Don't walk on the left side.
- Don't use mobile phones while walking.

Subject	Kalam's speech

Dear Reenu,

Hope you are well. How are your studies going? Are there online classes now? I am sending this email to share an amazing experience. I listened to a speech by Dr.APJ Abdul Kalam.

Kalam shares his experience of inaugurating the programme called Sasthrayan. A boy asked him a question about how to gain confidence in life. Kalam appreciated the boy for that question and recited the poem named "I will fly". I was greatly impressed by the speech of Dr.APJ Abdul kalam.

He says that the world around us wants us to be like others. But Kalam tells us to be Unique. You should not try to be somebody else. I think this is a wonderful idea. Kalam wants people to be courageous, hardworking and confident.

I really enjoyed this speech. It has given me a new insight and I suggest you to listen to it. I am attaching the original text of the speech. You will find it rewarding.

Have a wonderful day

Thanking you.

Yours lovingly

Sir,

Sub: Pandemic situation- need for strict rules and regulations.

I am writing this letter to express my concern about the increasing number of covid cases in Malappuram these days. If people do not follow the instructions, they will have to pay a heavy price for it. The death toll is increasing. It is high time we realised the seriousness of the situation. I strongly believe that there should be a strict rule and severe punishment should be given to those who violate the rules. People should observe social distancing. They should not step out of their homes except during unavoidable situations. I would urge the authorities to look into the matter seriously. Kindly publish this through the appropriate columns of your esteemed daily.

To

The Editor,
Times of India.

Sir,

Subject: Request to uphold Gandhian ideals- regarding.

I am writing this letter to express my concern about the increasing gap between the rich and the poor in India these days. India as we all know is a democratic country that is secular in nature. Recent studies reveal that the gap between the rich and the poor is on the increase and the number of people below poverty line is also increasing. It is high time we realised the seriousness of the situation. I strongly believe that the authorities concerned should bring suitable policies to uplift the poor. The poor should be given free education and job opportunities. Free medical and health insurance should be provided to the BPL families .I would urge the authorities to look into the matter seriously. Kindly publish this through the appropriate columns of your esteemed daily.

Yours truly,

Sd/

Ashley.

Essays/Articles

You may have to attend many questions of this type in your question paper. Often, they carry 6 to 8 score each. Practise the common expressions given below and try to include them in your essays/articles with slight necessary changes. Moreover, the expressions can be used in speech, letter to the editor, write-ups, etc.

Please see how ‘the common expressions’ are used in the answer to the question given below.

Common Expressions:

It is very important.

It is the need of the hour.

It is a must in the modern world.

The importance of the topic is increasing day by day.

There are many challenges.

It plays an important role.

It is a serious issue.

There are many pros and cons.

It has many merits and demerits

Government should be very vigilant.

Stern steps should be taken in this regard

We have been doing a lot in this regard.

Still we have miles to go.

Let’s work hard for a better society.

Question:

Analyse the news headlines given below:

Police Nab Inter-State Thief

Body of Class X student Found in Water-filled Pit

Opposition Disrupts Assembly Proceedings

A young Girl Brutally killed

In the light of the news headlines, prepare an article on the relevance of Gandhian ideas of non-violence, peace and equal rights in the modern world.

Answer:

The Relevance of Gandhian Principles

The relevance of Gandhian principles is increasing day by day. Gandhian principles are very important in the modern world. They are the need of the hour.

Now we are living in a world where everything is measured in terms of money. The new generation gives no importance to our traditions and values. Gandhiji always emphasized the significance of value-based education. He upheld the principles of ahimsa and truth. He also stressed the importance of fearlessness in life. He strongly stood against the social evils like caste system. He was sincere to his words and deeds.

At present we are shocked to hear about the cruel hands against women and children. There are many challenges for them. He firmly believed that women should enjoy the same right as men. He dreamt of an India where all communities live in perfect harmony.

Constant vigil should be kept to cherish the Gandhian principles. We should promote them among our children. Government should be very vigilant to include Gandhian values in the school curriculum. Stern steps should be taken in this regard. Though we have been doing a lot, we have miles to go.

Let's work hard for a better society.

It's really amazing /interesting/touching.

What a wonder!

Question:Imagine that you are a news channel reporter and you visited the Namuana Village to witness the strange ritual of turtle calling. Draft a Live TV report of the event.

Answer:

Hello friends! I am Gopan from Fiji. I am here at the Namuana seashore. The women of Namuana village still preserve a very strange ritual-that is 'turtle calling'. Thousands of people including foreigners have gathered here to watch and enjoy the strange ritual. The maidens of this village have assembled on the seashore. They are in black dress with a tattooed club in their hands. They are singing a strange chant. Now look carefully down into the water of the bay. Wow! We can see giant turtles rising one by one on the surface listening to the music.

It is very amazing to find that the turtles would not rise up in the presence of any member of the nearby village of Nabukelevu. The entire village is in a festive mood to see the descendants of the princess, Tinaicoboga and her daughter, Raudalice. This is not a fairy tale. It actually takes place. There is an interesting legend behind the ritual. We will get back after a short break with the details of the legend behind the turtle calling.

Till thenbye from Gopan with cameraman Sayan.

Answer :

A Trip to Wayanad

A trip to Wayanad remains unfaded in my memory. It was during onam holidays. Wayanad is one of my favourite tourist spots. It gives me a break from my dull routine. I feel refreshed.

We started in the evening. We were five packed in a car. The pattering of rain sometimes blocked my view of certain sights. There we stopped and never missed even a single beauty spot. While others were capturing the images in their mobiles, I captured and preserved it in my heart. The stay at the resort increased my excitement. I heard the silence of nature on that cold night. I was away from all the disturbing thoughts of busy life. I enjoyed all the spots till the next evening. The cool climate and the scenic beauty of the place make it my favourite tourist spot. I would say Wayanad is an ideal destination for people who want to spend time close to nature. I will return to Wayanad. It has captured my mind and heart.

Answer:

Smallpox spreads in Ship Ranaganji: 2 dead

Staff Reporter

Colombo

Two shipmen were dead last morning and 12 more have been diagnosed with smallpox which was spreading fast in the ship Ranaganji that was on its way to Kolkata from Liverpool. The ship is reported to have reached in the middle of the Arabian Sea. According to the official sources, the nearest port is 8 days away.

Two deck lascars who showed the symptoms were brought before the chief physician Dr A J Cronin two days back. After they were examined and the disease confirmed, the patients were evacuated. With increasing cases, all the patients were isolated. They were given special care and attention by the serang Hasan who is of major help to the doctor.

The condition of the two workers aggravated and they lost their life after fighting with the disease. The whole incident was kept a secret to avoid panic among the passengers.

However, "There is no need for panic, the situation is under control and we are relieved that no fresh cases are reported", said Captain Hamble to the media.

Precis Writing

Points to remember:

Précis writing is the art of reconstruction of the sentences in a text without changing its central theme . You need write the essence of the passage in your own words.

Keep in mind the following while writing précis:

- Don't copy sentences from the original passage
- Be brief and precise.
- Understand the main idea conveyed through the passage.
- Write in your own way.
- Use simple language.
- Find a suitable title.
- Maintain the proportion(1/3)

Question :

Write a precis of the following passage. Give a suitable title.

Perhaps one of the questions that we have asked ourselves is what drives a person to become an actor. Well, it could simply be the desire to stand out. Especially those who want to be in the limelight and the stage take to acting. Being on stage for the first time may be scary but it is exciting. Once a person has experienced this, they most often want more. A good actor is the one who will do anything to make the audience laugh, cry, giggle, angry, happy etc. Their love for acting makes them who they are and they do not even have to try. Those who love acting become characters in a performance. Becoming a character is tough, except for those with excellent imaginations. In a theatre, imagineers are characters in actor's shoes. They have a high concentration that is not easy to break. In fact good actors imagine themselves to be their character a week or so before a play.

Answer:

The desire to stand out takes one to acting. A good actor will go to any extent to entertain his audience. Experience makes them master entertainers. Those who are so passionate and committed to acting live the life of their characters long before the actual performance. These people have excellent imagination

Question for Practice.

Write a precis of the following passage. Give a suitable title.

The list of creatures that have vanished altogether and others that have almost vanished is long. As man spread across the earth he has wrought the most terrible havoc among the wild life, by shooting, trapping, cutting and burning the forest and by the callous and stupid introduction of enemies where there were no enemies before. All over the world the wild fauna has been whittled down steadily and remorselessly and many lovely and interesting animals have been so reduced in numbers that without protection and help they can never re-establish themselves and their numbers will dwindle until they can join the Dodo, Quagga and the great auk on the long list of extinct animals.

Answer:

The Wreck of the Titanic.

September 14, 2021/ Sayan

I read the poem The Wreck of the Titanic by Benjamin Peck Keith. It impressed me. Here I would like to share my reading experience. It has a good theme. We are impressed by brave words and deeds of Captain Smith and his team. They saved many lives risking their own. The poem really celebrates the bravery of Captain Smith. The poet glorifies the courage and honesty of the crew of the Titanic. It is true that eternal heroes are born out of tragedies and disasters.

This is a must read.

Section VI

Grammar

In this section some important grammar areas that are relevant in the discussion of First Year Question Paper are given:

1. Editing.
2. Reported Speech.
3. Passivisation.
4. If Clauses/Conditionals
5. Cohesive Devices

1) Editing

Correct the following sentences and try to understand the grammar point behind it.

1. Roshan get up at 5' in the morning every day.
2. English is speak all over the world .
3. Last year I have gone to a village to inaugurate a programme .
4. Shyam is one of the brilliant student in the school.
5. Every one in the class have taken the vaccine.
6. Ronaldo told that they will win the match.
7. There are several possibility.
8. The university offer different courses.
9. He did suicide.
10. I don't know where has he gone.
11. If you had reached before 10 minutes you got the Maveli Express.
12. He don't know much about it.
- 13 . He was born in 2nd Otober on Porbandar at Gujarat.
14. Some of the luggage were spoilt in the rain.

Answer:

1. Roshan gets up at 5' in the morning every day.

(Grammar point: Subject 'Roshan' is singular which takes 's' form ,thus 'get' becomes 'gets.' Moreover, routine activity is told in simple present tense. In the case of personal pronouns 'I', 'You', 'They', 'We' we use base form in the present tense. 'He, She and It' go with 'base+s')

2. English is spoken all over the world .

(Passive construction takes v3 form. The sentence is in singular present tense. So 'speak' becomes ' is spoken')

3. Last year I went to a village to inaugurate a programme .

(When we refer to a past event happened at a particular point of time ,simple past tense is used)

4. Shyam is one of the brilliant students in the school.

(One of the +.....Plural of the noun+ singular verb)

5. Everyone in the class has taken the vaccine.

(Subject 'everyone' agrees with the singular verb)

6.Ronaldo told that they would win the match.

(It is in the reported speech : .So 'would' should be used instead of 'will')

7. There are several possibilities.

(The sentence begins with the plural 'there are' . So 'possibilities' should be used)

8. The university offers different courses.

(The subject is singular. So 's' should be suffixed with the base form 'offer')

9. He committed suicide.

(Case of collocation. 'committed suicide' is a standard collocation in English)

10. I don't know where he has gone.

(It is a declarative sentence. 'Has he gone' is pattern of a question. So 'he has gone' is right)

11. If you had reached 10 minutes earlier, you would have got the Maveli Express.

(Third type of 'If clause. Here the pattern is : I+ past....would/should/could/might +have +past participle)

12. He doesn't know much about it.

(With the pronoun 'he' doesn't is used in the present tense. Read the grammar point of the first sentence)

13 .He was born on 2nd October at Porbandar in Gujarat

(prepositional errors: 'On' with date and day, In with large place, at with small place)

14. Some of the luggage was spoilt in the rain.

('luggage ' is collective .Though plural in meaning they are singular in form. The 'class collectives' like , 'traffic, equipment' are followed by singular verbs.)

❖ Don't forget to go through the pages 48 and 49 of your course book. Some grammar tips are given there in detail.

2. Reported Speech

Read the conversation between Lionel Messie and Neymar:

Neymer: We will win the match

Messie We will defeat you by a larger margin. My team is fit.

Neymer: But luck always favours Brazil.

Imagine you are a reporter and you would like to report the conversation. How can you do it?

Answer:

Neymer told Messi that they would win the match. Messi replied that they would defeat Brazil by a larger margin. He also added that his team was fit. Neymar opined that luck always favoured Brazil.

Now you try to report a conversation between Maggie and Gupta

Maggie: Excuse me , are you a vegetarian?

Gupta : Why do you ask that?

Maggie: I have heard that most Indians are vegetarians.

Answer

Maggie politely asked Gupta whether he was a vegetarian. Gupta asked her why she asked that question. Maggie replied that she had heard that most Indians were vegetarians.

Here you have noticed some changes when a conversation is changed into reported speech. Let's learn something general about Direct speech and Reported speech.

There are two ways of reporting the words of a speaker:

1. Direct Speech
2. Reported Speech

Neymer said, “ We will win the match”

Messie replied, “We will defeat you by a larger margin”

Here we report the exact words of the speaker using comma (,) and quotation mark(“.....”). Often a reporter finds this type of reporting difficult when the words of a speaker are long and pointless. Moreover, it may be monotonous to the readers or listeners. Here the reporter doesn't have freedom to change the words of the speaker.

In the case of Reported speech or Indirect Speech, we report the words of the speaker without quoting his exact words.

Neymer told that they would win the match. Messie replied that his team would defeat Brazil by a larger margin.

You might have noted some changes when Direct Speech is turned into Reported speech:

- The essence of the words of the speaker is conveyed to the readers or listeners without quoting his exact words.
- The comma after 'said' and the quotation marks are removed.

- corresponding past tenses.
- Sentences are written in declarative sentences.
- Pronouns and Possessive adjectives of the first and second persons in the direct speech(‘we & you’ in the examples given above) are changed into the third person in the Indirect(‘We’ becomes ‘they’ ‘You’ becomes ‘them’ in the example)
- If the person addressed reports the speech himself, then the second person is changed into the first.

Example:

If Messie reports the words of Neymar to others, reported speech should be as:

Neymer told me that they would win the match. I replied to him that we would defeat them by a larger Margin.

Question: 1.

Read the conversation between Maggie and Gupta and write it in reported speech.

Maggie: Please buy flowers with the shilling when you go, and lay them on my brother’s grave for me .

Gupta: Maggie, I shall use this shilling to buy flowers and put them on your brother’s grave

Answer:

Maggie requested Gupta to buy flowers with that shilling when he went and to lay them on the grave of her brother for her. Gupta replied that he would use that shilling to buy flowers and would put them on her brother’s grave.

Question.2

Read the conversation between Hasan and the doctor

Hasan: Are you careful of yourself , Doctor Sahib?

Doctor: Indeed I am .Besides this is my work.

Hasan: Do not worry , Doctor Sahib. I am strong .And it is my work too

Imagine the doctor reported this to one of his friends after reaching Ranaganji in Calcutta. How would he report the conversation?

You may begin as:

‘I met a great serang named Hasan. He asked me whether.....

Answer:

I met a great serang named Hasan .He asked me whether I was careful of myself. I replied to him that I was careful as it was my work. Hasan consoled me saying that he was strong and added that it was his work too.

Question for practice:

Question .

Complete the sentences to know how Gupta would report his conversation with Maggie

Gupta asked, “What is it, Maggie?”

Maggie replied, “come into the sitting room and I will tell you.”

I asked Maggie.....

Maggie replied

❖ Don’t forget to go through the pages 65&66(activity IX) of the text book

3. Passivisation

Read the two short passages:

You should wash your hands with soaps and use sanitisers. You should wear mask properly. You should keep social distance .The Police will punish you if you violate the Covid protocol.

Hands should be washed with soaps and sanitisers should be used, masks should be used properly. Social distance should be kept. You will be punished if you violate the Covid protocol.

What kind of difference have you noticed?

Both these passages have the same meaning but the sentence pattern is different.

In the first,

- In the first passage doer of the action is given in the beginning itself and so it is highlighted. It is said to be in the Active Voice as the doer is active.
- In the second passage the doer or subject 'you' is not highlighted and remains passive. So it is called in the Passive Voice. The action of the doer is highlighted here.
- In the second passage, as the word 'you', the doer, repeats in all other sentences the passage seems to be monotonous.
- Often sentences in passive construction standardize your language .
- We use only V3 in passive voice

Please observe the picture and note the use of active voice and passive voice in different tenses:

Active	Passive
The monkeys eat banana.	Banana is eaten by the monkeys.
The monkeys eat bananas.	Bananas are eaten by the monkeys.
The monkeys are eating banana.	Banana is being eaten by monkeys.
The monkeys ate banana.	Banana was eaten by monkeys.
The monkeys were eating banana.	Banana was being eaten by the monkeys.
The monkeys were eating bananas.	Bananas were being eaten by the monkeys.

The monkeys will eat bananas tomorrow.	Banana will be eaten by the monkeys tomorrow.
The Monkeys eat bananas every day.	Bananas are eaten by monkeys every day.
The Monkeys have eaten bananas.	Bananas have been eaten by monkeys.
The monkey had eaten bananas	Bananas had been eaten by monkeys.

Now you read the active voice and passive voice of some textual sentences.

Active	Passive
Then a monstrous terror seized him.	He was seized by a monstrous terror.
Due to the limited availability of time ,I selected twelve students at random.	Due to the limited availability of time, twelve students were selected at random.
I value your question.	Your question is valued
He had sent us to the villages.	We had been sent to the villages by him.
He showed his strong teeth in a sudden fleeting smile.	His strong teeth were shown in a sudden fleeting smile.

4 .IF Clauses

Let's read the short passage:

One day an angel appeared in front of a man who was totally disappointed in his life, and the angel asked him "What is wrong with you?" He said, 'My life is full of miseries. I am not at all blessed by God'

Angel replied "I will give you one crore rupees, if you give me your two eyes". He replied "never". Then the angel added "I will give you two crore rupees, if you give me your tongue"

Here the two highlighted sentences are examples of IF Clauses/Conditionals. A conditional sentence has two parts: the conditional clause and the main clause .

I will give you one crore rupees (Main Clause)

If you give me your two eyes (If clause)

Both of these clauses are interchangeable, ie; their positions may be changed.

Eg; If you give me your tongue, I will give you two crore rupees.

There are three types of If Clauses/Conditionals:

Types	Nature	Example	Structure
First Conditional	Real/Possible situations	1. If he plays well , the team will win the match. 2. If you invite her, she will attend the party.	If+ present (if clause). Will/shall/can/may+ infinitive(main clause)

Second Conditional	Improbable situations/ unlikely to be fulfilled/Imaginary (Here a least possibility to happen things remains).	1. If he played well , the team would win the match. 2. If you invited her , she would attend the party.	If +past(if clause) Would/should/could/might +infinitive (Main clause)
Third Conditional	Unreal/impossible past situations. (Here we speak of a past situation, so possibility to happen things remains closed.)	1. If he had played well, he would have won the match. 2. If she had invited her, she would have come.	If +past perfect (if clause) Would/should/could/might+ have +V3 (main clause)

5. Cohesive Devices

There are some words or phrases that show the relationship between sentences, paragraphs, clauses and sections of a text and they hold a text together. Such words are called cohesive devices. Often they are separated with a coma.

Examples:

1. He was tired of swimming. However, he managed to reach the other side of the river.
2. Covid claimed many lives. Many business men left their business field. Moreover, It has been posing new strange threats.
3. In conclusion, he was a driving force to the economic growth of our nation.

Please go through the table showing commonly used cohesive devices for different functions:

Cause and effect	Contrast/qualify/	Adding/illustrating/ comparing	Generalising /Sequencing
Because of As Since Due to Owing to For So As a result of Therefore Consequently In order to So So that So as to	Even though But However While Nevertheless Yet Although In spite of Despite Though Whereas Still On the contrary Even so	And Too Moreover Also Furthermore In addition to Besides For instance For example In particular Similarly In the same way Likewise Like equally	In some cases In general In all Many Most Broadly speaking Firstly/Secondly/lastly First of all/finally To begin with To start with Meanwhile Then After subsequently On the whole

Dear Friends,

Good Morning,

First of all, let me congratulate you on behalf of Arts and Sports Club of this locality for coming out with flying colours in the SSLC examination.

How many of you want to be successful in life? Hope every one of you wants to be great. Do you know, our health, happiness and success depend upon the intensity of our fighting spirit.

A burning desire is the starting point of all accomplishment. Every human being is born with potential. Every human being is born with goodness and trust. You have your own dreams. To achieve greatness, you have to work hard. Perseverance is the key to open the world of success. We should have a positive attitude towards our life. If so, life becomes more meaningful and fulfilling and you become unique. For that you have to fight the hardest battle and never stop fighting. As we are all born with wings, let us fly high to reach the peaks of excellence. I wish you all great success not only for your higher secondary course, but for your future life too. Thank you.

Dear Friend,

Hope you are fine .What about your friends abroad? Convey my loving regards to all.

Recently I read 'His First Flight', a short story by Liam O' Flaherty. The theme of the story is really thought provoking. I am deeply touched by the way a seagull family cares and loves a young seagull who is afraid to make his first flight. Here the mother seagull is concerned about her children.

The story made me think of the role of mother in our lives. My mother has been an immeasurable force in my life, a never ending source of strength, optimism and hope. The story reminded me of a saying that 'God can't be everywhere, so He created mothers.' Mother's unconditional love teaches us to believe in ourselves. She always speaks from her heart. She helps us to discover the resources in ourselves to move forward in life. How blessed we all are to have loving and caring parents.

Don't forget to read the story .Please share your thoughts about your mom too.

Lovingly

Ashley.

15.

Everyone is born with unique talents, ideas and dreams. We can never be like others even though we work hard to be so. It may lead to blind imitation and utter foolishness. The beauty of this universe is in the diversity. Divergent thoughts and actions result in the unique contribution of the individuals. So, being unique is the need of the hour. Great people in the history made revolutionary changes in the world with their unique contributions. They viewed things from different angles. They walked through different paths to make a difference. They never tried to be like others. I do agree with Dr. Kalam's view that our society and education systems are training us to be like others. We need to change this system. Let's be ourselves to leave a legacy when we leave this world for ever. We can do it if we make unique contributions to the world with our words and deeds.

Maggie

Maggie is the most touching character in the story The Price of Flowers. The teenaged girl wins the heart of the readers from the beginning to the end of the story. Her simplicity, innocence and concern for her old widowed mother strike us to the core. Her passion for her missing brother also captures the attention of the readers. Maggie is ambitious and hard working. She worked as a typist and dreamt of a career like that of a secretary. She played violin well. She was extremely concerned about her mother who worked hard by selling cakes to support her family. Like her mother, she was also haunted by the thoughts of her brother Frank. There had been no news of Frank for long. She was very nostalgic about her brother Frank. She gave a shilling to Mr. Gupta for buying flowers to be kept on the grave of her brother. She is a symbol of love, innocence and dedication. Her humility in dealing with others and her seriousness tinged in innocence for facing the challenges of life mark the difference. To conclude, Maggie is simply superb.

The Editor,
Times of India.

Sir,

Subject: Addressing the wide gap between the rich and the poor.

I am writing this letter to express my concern about the increasing gap between the rich and the poor in India these days. India, as we all know, is a democratic country that is secular in nature. Recent studies reveal that the gap between the rich and the poor is on the increase and the number of people below poverty line is also increasing. Mahatma Gandhi always reminded us of the need for a simple way of life. Unfortunately, the gap between the rich and the poor is increasing in our modern India day by day. Constant vigil should be kept in this regard.

It is high time we realised the seriousness of the situation. I strongly believe that the authorities concerned should bring suitable policies to uplift the poor. The poor should be given free education and job opportunities. Free medical and health insurance should be provided to the BPL families. It is also equally important that the rich should adopt a simpler way of living. They should not flaunt their wealth in front of others.

I would urge the authorities to look into the matter seriously. Kindly publish this through the appropriate columns of your esteemed daily.

Yours truly,

Sd./

Ashley.

Good morning dears,

We have gathered here to have a group discussion on ‘Modern India inspired by Gandhian values’. At the very outset I would like to remind you what Albert Einstein wrote about Gandhiji - ‘Generations to come, it may be, will scarce believe that such a one as this, ever in flesh and blood, walked upon this earth.’

My dear friends,

I do believe that there is no need of getting lost in wilderness to build a ‘modern India.’ Simply we need to embrace Gandhian values in their true spirit. Concern for humanity and for the marginalized society is the core of his principles. We can never build a modern India without facing the ground realities of the society. The tears and agonies of the poor people can never be written off. Let’s cherish the words of Gandhiji in this regard: ‘I shall work for an India in which the poorest shall feel that it is their country, in whose making they have an effective voice.....’. Let’s be together to build a modern India being inspired by Gandhian values. Gandhian Principles should be the foundation of such a ‘modern India.’ Truth, nonviolence and fearlessness’, the essence of Gandhian principles, should be our driving force. Let’s work hard for such a new India. Jai Hind.

Thank you.

Treatment of Hopes and Aspirations in the Story ‘The Price of Flowers’

The story The Price of Flowers echoes that ‘hopes and aspirations can never come to an end as the bonds of human relations are strong and are based on unconditional love.’ When we analyse the story we can see that there are many instances of hopes and aspirations, starting from the beginning till the end of the story and sometimes even beyond that. We can see Maggie, the main character in the story, hopefully looking at Mr. Gupta, at the very beginning of the story. She was very much hopeful about Gupta helping her and her mother to know about Frank, her brother. She also hopes to relax her ailing mother with Gupta’s visit to her home. Later when Gupta tells her that he doesn’t have any magical qualities as they think, she didn’t lose her hope. She requests him to tell her mother after looking into the magical ring that Frank is alive. From her conversation with Mr Gupta in the beginning, we can also see that Maggie is not satisfied with her typist job and aspires to do some creative job (brain work).

The character of Maggie's mother, Mrs Clifford, also projects hopes and aspirations. Even though there was no news about Frank from India, She was very much hopeful of getting information from him. Once she meets Gupta in her home, she becomes hopeful of knowing the whereabouts of Frank. Moreover, by making cakes and other food items, she aspires to provide a better future for her family.

At some points of the story, even Mr. Gupta's character projects hopes and aspirations. When he lies about the whereabouts of Frank to Mrs. Clifford, he hopes that Frank is safe and alive in India. His occasional visits to Maggie's home and their trips to various places were aimed at providing relief and relaxation to Maggie and her mother. Finally, towards the end of the story, he accepts the shilling offered by Maggie to buy flowers for her brother's grave. This also shows the hope and trust Maggie had in Mr. Gupta.

Thus we can clearly say that importance of hopes and aspirations is one of the significant themes in the story 'The Price of Flowers'.

Covid 19: A Pandemic or an Equaliser?

Covid 19 Viewed from a Different Angle.

Dr.Sudhamsu Banerjee.

Our world is going through one of the major crises that humanity has ever faced. The pandemic called Covid 19 has seriously affected all aspects of human life. Both the poor and the rich are equally affected by this great contagion. Even though the whole world is exploring different ways of tackling this great disease, a complete solution is yet to come.

“Marriage of my daughter was conducted in the same manner as any other marriage in the village, thanks to Corona” Said Sakkutta, a coconut tree climber from Malappuram district. His words reflect the thoughts of many. When we view this crisis from a different angle, we can see the equalising power of Covid 19. When this pandemic was first reported, no one thought that it is going to seriously affect the lives of people all over the world.

In many situations the affected families were isolated not only physically, but also socially. In no time, those who verbally abused the victims found out that they were also affected by the disease. This shows that the virus doesn't discriminate its victims upon any criteria. Whether rich or poor, young or old, urban or rural or even male or female, this pandemic treated everyone equally. Unlike the so called life style diseases like sugar and hypertension, which are considered as diseases of the elite class, Covid 19 transcends wealth, fame, prestige or age.

This aspect of the disease makes us think seriously about all types of vanities in this world. We all have to die one day. But most often we forget this fact and flaunt off our wealth. The present scenario reminds us the lines by James Shirley;

‘Upon Death’s purple altar now
See where the Victor-Victim bleeds;’

If we realise our mistakes and correct ourselves we can have a better world and a better tomorrow. Let's hope that this crisis will soon end and all of us can go back to the so called normal life.

16. Relevance of Gandhian Thoughts in the Modern World.

Gandhian principles assume a special significance in the modern world where everything is measured in terms of money and pomposity. Relevance of Gandhian principles is increasing in such a ‘fast developing world’. What he stood for years back is still relevant in the modern times. Gandhiji upheld the principles of women empowerment: ‘Women will enjoy the same right as men. This is the India of my dreams.’ Shall we able to build such an India where women are given equal opportunities? It is a question to be debated at length. A lot is to be done in this regard. At present we are ashamed of hearing about the cruelty and atrocities against women and children. There are many challenges for them.

Gandhiji also emphasised the need for communal harmony. He dreamt of ‘an India in which all communities shall live in perfect harmony.’ Have we been doing anything to ensure communal harmony? Nothing is being done.

Gandhiji stressed the need of value-based education. Have we succeeded in making our educational system value based and practice oriented? It is a reality that we failed to frame an education policy which is apt for our new generation. He upheld the principles of ahimsa and non-violence. He also stressed the importance of truthfulness and fearlessness in life. He strongly stood against the social evils like caste system.

Constant vigil should be kept to cherish the Gandhian principles. We should promote them among our children. Government should make sure that Gandhian values are included in the school curriculum. Stern steps should be taken in this regard. Let's work hard for a better society.

THIS TOO SHALL PASS

-Helen Steiner Rice

If I can endure for this minute
Whatever is happening to me,
No matter how heavy my heart is
Or how dark the moment may be-

If I can remain calm and quiet
With all the world crashing about me,
Secure in the knowledge God loves me
When everyone else seems to doubt me-

If I can but keep on believing
What I know in my heart to be true,
That darkness will fade with the morning
And that this will pass away, too-

Then nothing in life can defeat me
For as long as this knowledge remains
I can suffer whatever is happening
For I know God will break all of the chains

That are binding me tight in the darkness.
And trying to fill me with fear-
For there is no night without dawning,
And I know that my morning is near.

His attitude towards money and popularity marks the difference. Hasan faced challenges with fortitude and willpower. He gave unconditional support to the doctor of the ship to prevent the spread of the disease. He was working hard without expecting any reward. With silent efficiency, he nursed the patients risking his own life. He was tolerant to his colleague's faith. So he read scriptures from Ramayana, while burying the bodies of the two patients who died during the voyage. His courage, self control and faith helped to manage the disaster from spreading widely. He is a symbol of love, care, dedication and responsibility. A. J. Cronin presents a very bold and selfless character through Hasan.

14th Sep. 2021.

Dear Tinku,

Hope you are fine. Glad to hear from you about a ritual practised in your locality. I am much fascinated reading about the ritual you shared with me. It is true that our traditions and rituals play significant roles in our life. They add vigour and charm to our dull life. Here I'm sharing one of the most popular rituals practised in our locality; 'The Rayiranellur hill climbing'.

Every year, hundreds of people climb the 500-metre-high Rayiranellur hill near Pattambi on the 1st day in the Malayalam month of Tulam to pay respects to Naranath Bhranthan, a legendary mystic who carried heavy boulders up the hill only to push them down. This deed symbolises meaninglessness of life. The legend says that goddess Durga appeared before Naranath Bhranthan on the first day of the Malayalam month of Thulam and gave him answers on existence and its cause. People climb the hill on this day every year, hopeful of a better future. The climb, known as 'Rayiranellur Malakayattam', is getting more popular across the State.

Tulam 1st is next Monday. If you come to my home, we can go there together on Monday morning. Hope we can meet next Monday. Convey my regards to all. Eagerly waiting for your reply

Your ever loving friend,

Jithu.

Good evening all,

This is Maya from ABC TV, bringing you the news from Calcutta Seaport.

A grand ceremony is arranged here with all health precautions, to receive the Ship of Ranaganji which will anchor at the port in a few minutes. Thousands of people are thronging here despite the news from Colombo that the ship had been infected by the deadly epidemic smallpox. They are eagerly waiting just to get a glimpse of Mr. Hasan who helped the physician of the ship, Dr A J Cronin in taking care of around 14 members of the crew, of which two lost their lives. The rest has been shifted to hospital in Colombo. With timely intervention and firm support of Mr. Hasan, Dr. Cronin is successful in preventing the spread of this most dreaded epidemic to more than 1500 passengers in the ship.

Yes, the ship has anchored right now, and a special reception team in PPE kits is garlanding the Serang Mr. Hasan who receives the honour with a sheepish smile amidst a thundering applause. All the passengers who survived are now happily posing for a photo in front of Ranaganji, with the smiling Captain and Physician on either side of Mr. Hasan.

That is all, from Calcutta, Maya, ABC Channel signing off with Cameraman Goyal Das.

It is true that money plays an important role in our life. Each of us has a built-in-attitude towards money. Our attitude towards money often sets the rhythms of life. I keep a balanced attitude toward the 'giant magician'. I never fix a price tag for noble human relations. We need to go beyond the frame of 'money and wealth' set by modern materialistic society. I do believe that service to humanity is the service to God. The character Hasan, in the story The Serang of Ranaganji, is an ideal person in this regard. He never expected money or reward for his fifteen years of service in Ranganji . The approach of Hasan towards wealth and fame evoked a sense of regret in Dr Cronin, the doctor of the ship. Dr.Cronin felt shame over his passionate desire for success and wealth. His attitude towards money was redefined by Hasan. A serang was able to reset the vision of a doctor towards life. He was highly touched by the nobility of Hasan's dedication.

To conclude, money can never be considered as the base of success and happiness.

A trip to Namuana

When I thought of a trip abroad with my family, Fiji was the first destination that came to my mind. Thankfully, Travelasia, the travel agency we contacted made every single aspect of the trip comfortable and thrilling for us. We reached Namuana village that nestles at the foot of a beautiful bay in the Fijian island of Kadavu. It was the scenic beauty that attracted me the most. At the same time, traditions and customs of the people there captured my mind and heart.

When we reached there, the islanders were celebrating Turtle Calling; an interesting ritual practised by the natives every year. The shore was very crowded. Everyone was in a festive mood. The maidens of the village, all dressed in mourning and carrying a sacred club tattooed in strange pattern, chanted a special song. We could see some turtles coming up from the surface of water on hearing the song.

There is an interesting legend behind the ritual. The people of Namuana believe that the turtles are the descendants of the princess Tinaicoboga, the wife of the village chief, and their daughter, Raudalice. You may doubt the legend, but it is real that turtles rise to the surface of waters as if listening to the music.

It is a must see tourist event which fills our mind with wonder. Whoever visits any Fijian island will enjoy the beaches, the coral reefs and the blue sea. But if you visit the Fijian island of Kadavu and its Namuana village at the time of Turtle Calling, the most striking take away will be memories of the ritual itself.

11. Disasters and Disaster Management in Kerala.

Disasters strike Kerala almost every year in different forms claiming lots of lives and devastating our possessions and belongings. We have experienced disasters since time immemorial. They have increased both in frequency and intensity.

Disaster management is the focus area of every state. Each state has different strategies and committees for proper management of disasters. The latest disaster, the epidemic Covid 19, has been teaching us a great lesson. Still we grope in the dark to tackle the menace.

Kerala is prone to several natural hazards like landslides, flood, drought etc. The rivers of Kerala face problems such as sand mining and pollution. We have been very cruel to Mother Nature. The landslides due to uncontrolled levelling of hills and multi-storeyed constructions on hilltops are examples of man-made disasters. On the other hand, the natural disasters: the tsunami of 2004 and the floods of 2018, ended in major loss of lives and money.

Death, damage and destruction are the immediate impacts of disasters. Disasters cause damage to life supporting systems. Rehabilitation is an important part of disaster management. There should be proper coordination among the various departments of the governments to bring speedy relief to the victims. The rescue teams need to be equipped with the latest technology. We may not be able to prevent many of these disasters, but we can mitigate their impact by proper management. Let's face the challenges posed by disasters with timely intervention of the authority concerned and the public.

12. Freedom of Women: Still a Mirage.

Apurva Salim.

Freedom of Women includes right to live free from violence and discrimination and to enjoy the highest attainable status of physical and mental health. We have to agree that all citizens in a country have equal rights. But are women enjoying freedom as constitution guarantees them?

“ Even in the capital city, a woman can’t walk freely at night even after more than 74 years of independence. See for instance, in Nirbhaya case, many people were questioning the way of dressing, the relationship with the companion and the purpose of going out at night instead of decrying the brutality”, said Ms. Sonia K T, a post graduate student from JNU, New Delhi.

Obviously freedom of women is still a mirage. Society doesn’t give women an easy time. Swami Vivekananda rightly said, “There is no chance for the welfare of the world, unless the condition of women is improved. It is not possible for a bird to fly on only one wing”. So there is no question on why women should have equal freedom. All we have to do now is to make it a reality by recognising that women’s rights are also human rights.

13. Appreciation of the poem ‘This Too Shall Pass’

‘This Too Shall Pass’ is a beautiful poem written by the famous English poet Helen Steiner Rice. Here, the poet renders a poetic framework to the belief that ‘good can come out of any adversity.’ The poet beautifully describes the conditions which are needed to achieve success in life.

The poem begins underlining the importance of endurance. We can never be thrown into the world of darkness, if we are blessed with the ability to endure. Helen Rice moves to the next stanza stressing the importance of being calm and quiet when whole the world is against us. The faith in ourselves is important when everything fades in the darkness around. Nothing can defeat us if we ‘can suffer whatever is happening.’ Thus we become optimistic. We always become hopeful that there is a dawn waiting us at the end of the night.

The poem is highly motivational and inspirational to all readers. The poetic device anaphora is used by repetition of the phrase ‘If I can’. All the five stanzas are of equal length of four lines. The rhyme scheme is not the same for all stanzas. The last three stanzas have the same rhyme scheme abab. Use of symbol of night and dawn is attention capturing. In spite of the serious tone, the charm of the poem won’t go unnoticed. It is obvious that this poem finds a place in our heart due to the positive notes as well as the musicality throughout.

Do not stand at my grave and weep

- Elizabeth Frye

Do not stand
By my grave, and weep.
I am not there,
I do not sleep-
I am the thousand winds that blow
I am the diamond greens in snow
I am the sunlight on ripened grain,
I am the gentle, autumn rain.
As you awake with morning's hush,
I am the swift, up-flinging rush
Of quiet birds in circling flight,
I am the day transcending night.
Do not stand
By my grave and cry-
I am not,
I did not die.

.....End.....
